

Children Are Good Helpers

Children are good helpers.
My Mom asks me to bring the cookies to the table.

"These cookies?" I ask.
"Yes," says Mom.
Then we can eat one.

Children are good helpers.
My Dad asks me to bring the tools to the workshop.

"These tools?" I ask.
"Yes," says Dad.
Then we can fix something.

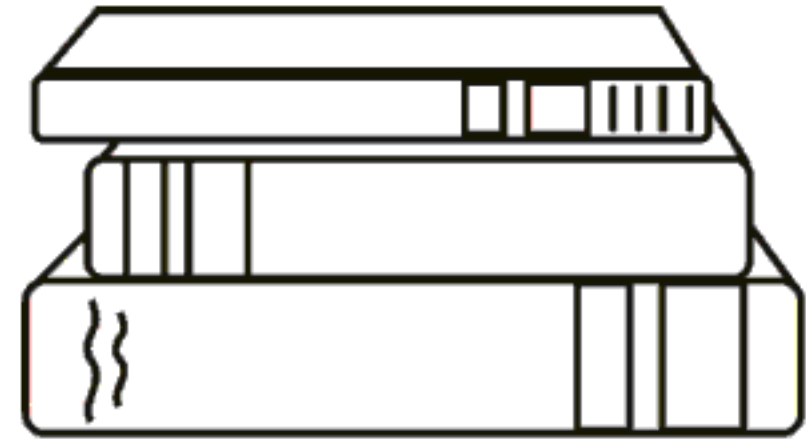

Children are good helpers.
My sister asks me to bring the dolls to the bedroom.

"These dolls?" I ask.
"Yes," she says.
Then we can play.

Children are good helpers.
My brother asks me to bring the books to the living room.

"These books?" I ask.
"Yes," he says.
Then we can read one.
